I'm Dan Kilgore. For almost twenty-five years, I've represented people who were hurt through no fault of their own.

Car crashes. Trucking accidents. Falls on dangerous property.

Here's what I've learned. After an accident, you're dealing with pain, missed work, and bills you didn't expect. Meanwhile, the insurance company has a whole team whose job is to pay you as little as possible.

That's not fair, and it's not right.

At Kilgore Stanton, we make sure you're not facing them alone. We'll investigate what happened, gather the evidence, handle the paperwork and the calls, and fight for fair treatment every step of the way.

You focus on getting better. We'll handle the rest.

The consultation is free. And you pay no fee unless we win your case.

At Ashworth Nwosu Family Law, we sit down with you before the hearing and walk you through it. Who will be in the room. What the process looks like. What you can say, and what's better left to us.

Everything She Built

Estate planning · Adult (40-55) · Irish · 60 seconds

My mother ran a shop in our town for thirty-eight years. Newspapers, sweets, and every bit of gossip in the parish.

She built everything herself. The shop, the house, the little field out the back she let the neighbour's horse graze for free.

When she died, I was dreading it. The paperwork, the arguments, my brothers.

But she'd already sorted it.

Years before, she'd sat down with a solicitor and made a proper will. Who got the shop. Who got the house. Even the horse was mentioned.

There was nothing to fight about. We just got to miss her.

That was her last gift to us, and honestly, it was the best one.

At Moira Carrigan Solicitors, we help families make wills, plan for the future and settle estates, with patience and plain talk.

Moira Carrigan Solicitors. Sort it now, for the people you'll leave behind.

Paperwork That Crossed an Ocean

Immigration law · Adult (30-45) · Neutral American · 60 seconds

When my parents came to this country, everything they owned fit in two suitcases.

The paperwork took up a third.

I remember the kitchen table covered in forms. My mother reading every page twice. My father on hold with an office for two hours, just to ask a single question.

They got through it. But they did it alone, and they were scared the whole time.

That's why I do this.

At Petrova Immigration Law Group, we help families, workers and students with visas, green cards, work permits and citizenship. We explain every step, we keep track of every deadline, and we answer the phone.

Every case is different, and we'll always be honest about yours.

Unpaid Overtime

Employment law · Adult (30-45) · Neutral American · 60 seconds

Maybe you're a nurse who charts after your shift ends, off the clock, because that's just how it's done.

Maybe you're a line cook. The schedule says eight hours. The kitchen says ten.

Maybe you're a warehouse worker waiting twenty minutes in a security line after you've already clocked out, every single night.

You earned that time.

In many cases, the law says you should be paid for it.

At Beaumont Labor Law, we help workers understand wage and hour rights, look at the records, and decide on the right next step. Sometimes that's a letter. Sometimes it's more.

You won't be judged for asking. Plenty of our clients weren't sure they had a problem until they talked to us.

The first consultation is free and confidential.

You Don't Have to Face Court Alone

Legal aid, PSA · Mature (55+) · Neutral American · 60 seconds

For thirty years, I was a judge in this county.

I saw people walk into my courtroom without a lawyer. A mother fighting an eviction. A veteran with a benefits appeal. A man who didn't understand the papers he'd been served.

They were doing their best. But the other side had lawyers, and they didn't.

That isn't justice. It's just the way it often goes.

The Adjuster Called

Personal injury, duet · Adult (30-45) · Neutral American · 60 seconds

Cast: LAUREN TOMAS

LAUREN Who was that?

TOMAS The other guy's insurance. They want to settle.

LAUREN Settle? It's been six days.

TOMAS They said it's a fair offer. They need an answer by Friday.

LAUREN Tomas, you can't turn your head. You haven't been back to work.

TOMAS I know.

LAUREN Do we even know what the doctor's going to say?

TOMAS Not yet.

LAUREN Then how do they know it's fair?

TOMAS I just want this over, Lauren.

LAUREN I know. Me too. But not like this.

TOMAS So what do we do?

LAUREN We don't sign anything. We call someone first.

TOMAS Who?

LAUREN Stroud and Maddox. Remember, Dina used them after her accident. She said they explained everything and took the calls.

TOMAS Okay. Call them.

Opening Day

Small-business legal services · Adult (30-45) · Neutral American · 60 seconds

Six a.m. The ovens have been on since four. There's flour on my shoes, flour in my hair, and a line of people outside my door.

My door. My bakery.

Three years ago, it was a notebook full of recipes and a dream I said out loud to exactly one person.

Then came the part nobody puts on Instagram. The business registration. The lease with forty pages of small print. The contract with the flour supplier. The rules for hiring my first two employees.

Tessel and Park handled all of it. They explained every page, flagged the things I'd have missed, and never once made me feel silly for asking.

So this morning, I never had to think about any of it. I just got to bake.

If you're starting something, Tessel and Park Business Law helps with formation, contracts, leases, trademarks and hiring, at a flat, fair fee.
